How Husbands Silently Show Their Love

If you've been married for any length of time, you've likely wondered if your husband loves you. He may be showing you. I'm sure the things I'm about to share are true, in some sense at least for wives too. But I can only speak personally for husbands because I am one. Here are a few ways husbands silently show their love:

1. He serves.

Recently, while visiting with my daughter's family, her husband was late arriving home from work. She had plans for us to go out to eat together and was a little frustrated that he was late. She called and he told her he was at Walmart picking up toilet paper that she had said they were in need of. She had forgotten; but he hadn't. And, after a hard day's work, when he had much rather be home, he was wandering the toilet paper aisle. To serve his family. Because sometimes love looks a lot like toilet paper.

2. He sacrifices.

I know a man ("Whether in the flesh or out of the flesh, I know not") who enjoys Chinese food. His wife doesn't. He also does not like to eat out without her. So, when trying to decide where the couple will eat, he says "Where would you like to go?" Sounds trivial, doesn't it? But why does he do this – because he loves his wife! And, he will sacrifice Chinese food for Burger King!

3. He spends time.

The husbands I know are busy. But, I also know, they are intentionally carving out time to spend with their family. It might not be doing anything significant, but the fact that he is present is one of the ways he shows love.

4. He gives grace.

Does your husband show you grace when you make mistakes? Don't take it lightly. Giving grace probably doesn't come naturally to him. The next time you notice his efforts, thank him for showing you love in this way.

5. He provides.

It's usually seen as a "duty" — and yet most times, men view their employment as a means of caring for their families. Even if they hate their jobs, they show up because they want their families to be well cared for and looked after. Has he changed a light bulb for you lately? Mowed the lawn? Fixed the leaky faucet? All of these are examples of his love and care.

6. He leads.

Allowing men to lead is not a popular thing these days — and yet it's biblical. If you have a husband who leads you and your family, and even takes initiative in looking after your spiritual welfare — you have a gift.

Husbands aren't perfect. They won't live up to all of your expectations. But, if you have a husband who shows his love in one or more of the ways mentioned you have a lot to be thank for.

Take time to work – it is the price of success.

Take time to think – it is the price of power.

Take time to play – it is the secret of youth.

Take time to read – it is the foundation of knowledge.

Take time to laugh – it is the music of the soul.

Take time to be courteous – it is the work of gentlemen.
