A few days ago, I was honored to hear a former Conway, University of Arkansas and NFL football athlete tell a story of a near tragedy involving his family. Peyton Hillis was enjoying a family vacation at the beach. The previous night had brought in storms and lots of rain but the morning brought in sunshine and blue skies. As the children played in the waves within minutes it was apparent his 12-year-old son and 8-year-old niece were in peril from a huge rip tide that was dragging them further and further away. Peyton is a mountain of a man, chiseled with strength. His reaction was that of a loving father and he swam with courage to rescue his family. When he made it to his son, he could see he was in trouble but his smaller niece was almost gone. Peyton with tears told of the hardest decision of his life. Swim by my son to rescue my niece. The good news about this story is that all are well and healthy today. The strength of a loving father saved them and nearly cost him his life. His words still ring in my ears. I swam by my son to save the little girl.

God loves you that much! He gave his only begotten Son that You might have everlasting Life. ~Thomas
